

SNAPPY SNARE INSTRUCTIONS

Pull the ring down the flexible shaft to the handle to form a noose. Hold the ring with the forefinger or thumb. When the loop is over the animal's head, release the ring and quickly snap the Snare up or pull it away from the animal. This takes up the slack in the rope and tightens the noose around the pet's neck. Pets usually relax when the noose is finally around their neck and they realize they are caught. Try it on a gentle pet, your wrist or a person's leg to see how fast, and gentle it works before you NEED to use it. "Practice makes perfect."

The Snappy Snare is held with one hand leaving the other free for balance and to help catch the animal. Some use this snare to get a rope around the animal's neck and then use the heavy duty FETCH or KETCH-ALL poles if the animal becomes unruly.

30" Model - This model is most useful for cats and small dogs.

Pull the ring down the flexible shaft to the handle to create the loop. Place the snare over the pet's head, release the ring and snap the snare up or pull it away like setting the hook in a fish.

This takes the slack out and tightens the rope around the pet's neck.

49" & 65" Models - Designed for dogs in a cage or run or for field use.

These snares are for elusive, frightened pets you believe will calm down when restrained. They are not for vicious, fractious animals. If the animal charges after being caught one, has some control by holding the rope and lifting the animal's front feet off the ground. Keep the Fetch Pole or Ketch-All Pole handy to slide down over the Snappy Snare if the pet needs more restraint.
